Agnes Scott College: The World for Women

"Educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times."

In a world that is constantly changing it is nice to know that some things remain constant. One thing that has not changed in over one hundred years is Agnes Scott College's Bell Tower. When current students look at the Main Tower, they are able to connect with all of the alumnae across the generations. There is much more to that; here at Agnes Scott we have the unique opportunity to continue traditions, many of which have been happening for near a century. This year's Silhouette hopes to continue in the rich tradition of story telling so famous in the annuals from the 1950s. We have decided to interject a few photos and stories from that decade to highlight some of the traditions that we cherish today and show how they celebrated them back in the day. One of Agne's oldest traditions is Senior Investiture which began in 1908 and is observed each fall. At this ceremony Seniors receive academic mortar boards in recognition of their standing as a Senior. However, the tradition that went along with this has long since become but a memory. Little Girls' Day, was celebrated each year on the day prior to Investiture, and all Seniors would dress up and act like little girls for one last day before they were expected to be the campus role models. Of course I am sure that this is why Investiture always happened long after Black Cat. There are few current students that can not talk about their favorite aspect of Black Cat. The tradition started in 1915 by Dr. Sweet, the professor of hygiene, in order to curtail the hazing committed by the Sophomores on the First-Years. When the tradition began it was only between the Sophomores and First-Years, and at the end of a week of following the Sophomores' rules, the two classes would put on a stunt, or skit. It was not until the late 1940s that Black Cat morphed into something we would recognize today, and it would not be until much later for one of the favorite aspects, Junior Production. However, there was very active competition between the classes in the sports of basketball, field hockey, and archery. While the events themselves may have changed over time the concept remained and the time honored tradition continues to welcome First-Years to Agnes Scott and make them a part of the college. Of course one of the most favorite traditions is the ring ceremony. Students who have Sophomore standing are eligible to receive their rings during Sophomore Family Weekend in February. The rectangular black onyx ring with "ASC" inscribed on its top holds a special place in most Scotties' hearts. It is a tangible connection to all other alumnae across the generations. While the formal ceremony itself is relatively new, the ring was introduced in the 1920s and has remained virtually unchanged. Along with these remaining traditions Agnes has said goodbye to a few from the fifties. May Day and its court and play are gone, the Senior Opera, and the Silhouette Beauties (if you have never heard of that one take a study break in the library and check out some of the older annuals). We are not suggesting bringing them back; it is good to know that Agnes Scott changes with the times. However, as we change with the times it is a comfort to know that the students of the class of 1906 decided that it was important to have student government, and that they signed the same honor pledge that we all did as First-Years during that Orientation weekend. On that note the Silhouette Staff of 2008-2009 presents to the campus Now ... and Then.

So, you have decided to attend Agnes Scott. Congratulations and welcome to your new home. First, remember to go by the parking deck and pick up your keys and shirt. Then be sure to get all of your things out the car. This is not 1950 when you would have come with just one or two bags. Don't worry there will be lots of people around to help out. Then remember to meet your RA and hallmates. After that it is off to the Honor Pledge signing, Agnes Scott's oldest tradition. Everyone will be lining up outside so don't be late. If you follow a bagpiper you can't go wrong can you? So you will sign the parchments that will be hung later in Buttrick. The administration will welcome you and tell you why the Honor Code is so important to Agnes Scott. Then there is some time for you to meet new people and just relax. Maybe you will get to meet President Kiss or discover who plays Agnes Irvine (the Scottie dog). Don't forget that the next day will be busy too. Atlanta Challenge will be here to do some team building and then you and your ASC 101 group will be heading out to different places in Atlanta. All of the activities will be wrapped up with a worship on Sunday. So, if you enjoyed yourself be sure to thank one of the members of the Orientation Council when you see them.

Agnes Scott has changed in the past fifty years. New buildings have been built, we have a new president, and the diversity of the student body has increased. Our enrollment has increased, and boys are allowed in the dorms. But some things have not changed. We are still a women's college dedicated to educating the future leaders of America. Agnes still remains a highly respected institution that sends women in to the world ready for success. In following with the traditions of annuals from the 1950s, the photos of the campus are presented here for future generations to imagine what Agnes Scott looked like "back in the day." So, here's to another fifty years. May we grow and continue to progress while still remembering where we came from.

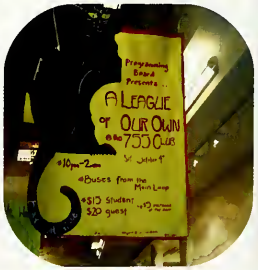
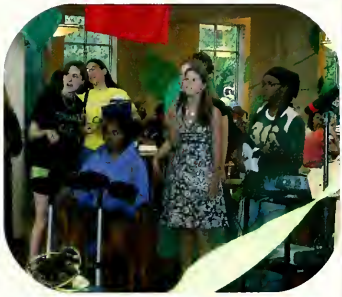
Black Cat Decorations

Black Cat is the one week each year that Agnes Scott looks like a tornado of yellow, red, green, and blue has hit it. This year the Gold Diggers '09 decorated with a miners theme, the Phoenixes '10 created the Phoenix City, the Amazons '11 played monopoly, and the Buccaneers '12 decorated with their color of blue as is traditional for the First-Years. While our themes may be very different from that of the fifties the fervor for the week was much the same.



Party Days



Party days are a time for each class to throw a party at dinner for the other classes. This year the Gold Diggers "09 hosted Mardi Gras, the Phoenixes '10 invited us to party downtown, the Amazons '11 hosted a RockBand party in the jungle, and the Buccaneers '12 invited us aboard to sail the seven seas. These parties are scored by the number of people who stay at dinner, your activities, and the decorations.

Trivia Night and Field Day

Trivia has been a part of Black Cat for a number of years and test the classes knowledge of world events, people, places, and of course Agnes Scott.

Field Hockey of the 1950's

In the fifties, field hockey was not only played during Black Cat but as a competitive season between the classes.

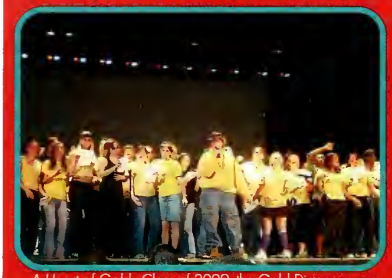
Junior Production



A Heart of Gold - Class of 2009, the Gold Diggers, say farewell and enjoy their last Junior Production at Agnes.

Junior Production Then - These Scotties perform as three little cats in what was formally known as Junior Jaunt.

Junior Production Now - The Phoenixes remind Agnes Scott that girl power is still on the rise!

Painting the Town Red - Class of 2010, the Phoenixes, show off their Scottie Spirit during this year's Junior Production.

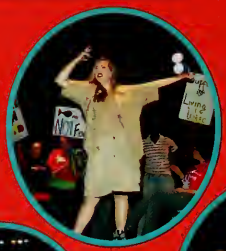
Junior Production Night, a time when Scotties really get into the Black Cat Spirit!

The night started with the upper classes showing the community what Black Cat is all about while the Buccaneers stepped up with their first song and dance.

Later on the Phoenixes gave us a performance to remember! The Juniors' production, Viva La Junior Production, was ripe with girl power, a few Grease references, a Project Runway showdown, and of course a special appearance from the Spice Girls!

Lean, Green Fighting Machines - Class of 2011, the Amazon Warriors, strut their stuff on stage with self-confidence, stamina, and of course, stilettos.



True Blue - Class of 2012, the Blue Buccaneers, did a remarkable job as they made their Junior Production debut.

Black Cat Formal

Blast from the Past - A Scottie and her date set out for a romantic night on the town just prior to Black Cat Formal.

Tying into the, "A League of Their Own" theme flawlessly with a majestic vista of the Atlanta Braves' playing field, the location of this year's Black Cat Formal, Turner Field Stadium's 755 Club, was nothing short of spectacular. First-Year student, Eleni Urbani said, "If I had to use one word to describe [Black Cat], I would choose, 'glamorous'," noting the attire of the attendees ranging from dark, debonair tuxedos to elegant jewel-toned dresses. Along with the sophisticated attendees, this year's soiree included appetizing cuisine, consisting of miniature egg rolls and tiramisu, gorgeous bouquet assortments, as well as wide-ranging music selections, forming a lively yet relaxed ambiance throughout the night.

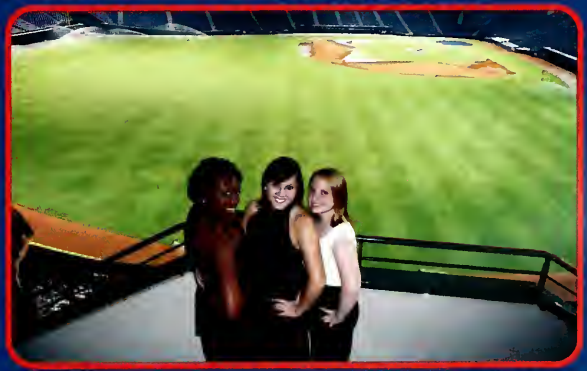
Two is Better Than One - Holly Nelson and Najla Waleed along with Lauren Koleta and Tatyana Adams have the time of their lives at the Black Cat Formal.

Four on No. 44 - Michelle Bach, Amanda Chaffin, Caitlin Shull, and Lori Finklea stand behind, 44, the legendary uniform number of all-time best Braves baseball player, Hank Aaron.

Double The Fun! - Aniceta Kalena Williams and Leticia Santos had a ball this year.

Dressed to Impress - Laura van Duursen and Morgan Smith show off their dresses just before Black Cat Formal.



Play Ball! - Tricia Jackson, Laura Marsee, and Lucia Halsether strike a pose behind the baseball diamond at Turner Field during this year's Black Cat Formal, held at the 755 Club.

Senior Investiture is a tradition that dates back decades and decades at Agnes Scott College. It originated hundreds of years ago in English universities, but has since then become one of the college's most cherished traditions. Every fall seniors gather in their newly received caps and gowns and practice for their departure into the "real world", only months away. During the ceremony, they are capped with their academic mortar boards as a symbol of their status. Senior Investiture is concluded with a celebratory family dinner and a worship on Sunday morning.

The Julia Thompson Smith Chapel

The chapel is named in honor of the late Julia Thompson Smith '31, wife of the late Hal Smith, a generous donor and long-time chair of the college's Board of Trustees. Whether one subscribes to a religion or not, the Julia Thompson Smith Chapel is most certainly a unique place for worship and meditation. Tucked away amidst the hustle and bustle of everyday student life, the chapel's unique design and purpose invites the busiest of us to rest, think and meditate. One of the highlights of the new chapel is its simple, non-denominational design. Those of all faiths and beliefs are invited to meet and interact. Above all else, inter-faith practices are supported and encouraged. Along with the inauguration of the Julia Smith Chapel, the brand new Agnes Scott Believes program has begun and is held each Friday at 10am in this space. This program is based on the NPR show titled "This I Believe." Each week one faculty or staff member and one student share their beliefs with the community.

Every college campus has a jewel. The Julia Thompson Smith Chapel is ours.

The problem to be faced is: how to combine loyalty to one's own tradition with reverence for different traditions.
– Abraham Joshua Heschel

So Did You Know?

Before the Julia Thompson Smith Chapel, Agnes Scott never had a free standing chapel. In fact, the gazebo once functioned as the school's chapel, as did Gaines Chapel of course.

Agnes Scott Welcomes

Dean Donna Lee

While Dean Lee had only been here for a short time when the semester began, it felt as if she had been a part of the Agnes Scott community for years. Dean Lee came to Agnes Scott from Rollins College, also a liberal arts college, where she served as the Dean of Student Affairs. When I sat down with Dean Lee, she said that one of the reasons she was drawn to Agnes Scott was that she was impressed by the women here and the way they express themselves... not to mention the grass that drew many a Scottie to come here. Women at Agnes Scott, both today and throughout history, have been willing to share their opinions with others, making sure that their voices are heard by both the Agnes Scott community and the larger community. Dean Lee mentioned that women are known to face injustice and inequality that they see in the world and that women at Agnes Scott are on the forefront of that change. Dean Lee also spoke to the community that we have here at Agnes Scott saying that there was "a sense of connection, spirit, and pride" in our school. I asked Dean Lee what she felt was the most important aspect of being a dean and she said that it was reaching out and making connections with students. When Dean Lee held up the Black Kitty at bonfire, it seemed that her connection to the Agnes Scott community grew even deeper. Her appearance at bonfire reinforced her belief that students are whole beings who work hard in the classroom but also need to have time to play and grow outside of the classroom. It has become clear that Dean Lee will be with Agnes Scott for many years to come and will add a part of who she is to the traditions that all Scotties love and cherish. It has been a pleasure to welcome Dean Lee and her family to the campus and have the opportunity to sit down and not only talk to her but make a connection with her. I would suggest that every Scottie take the time to form a relationship with our new dean. -- Sarah Kalaris '09

This new and innovative club on campus has an amazing agenda selected for this year and years to come. The Philosophy Club combines all areas of interest at the school into events that everyone can enjoy and get intellectual enjoyment out of.

This year we've worked hard to create the club around ideas that will appeal to a large range of people that will help to join them together where otherwise they would be limited to specialized clubs. We have ideas that include going on excursions into Atlanta that would include the Georgia Aquarium where we can discuss the ethical issue of keeping animals in captivity for entertainment. We also have movie nights that are held every month or we just get together to have a game night.

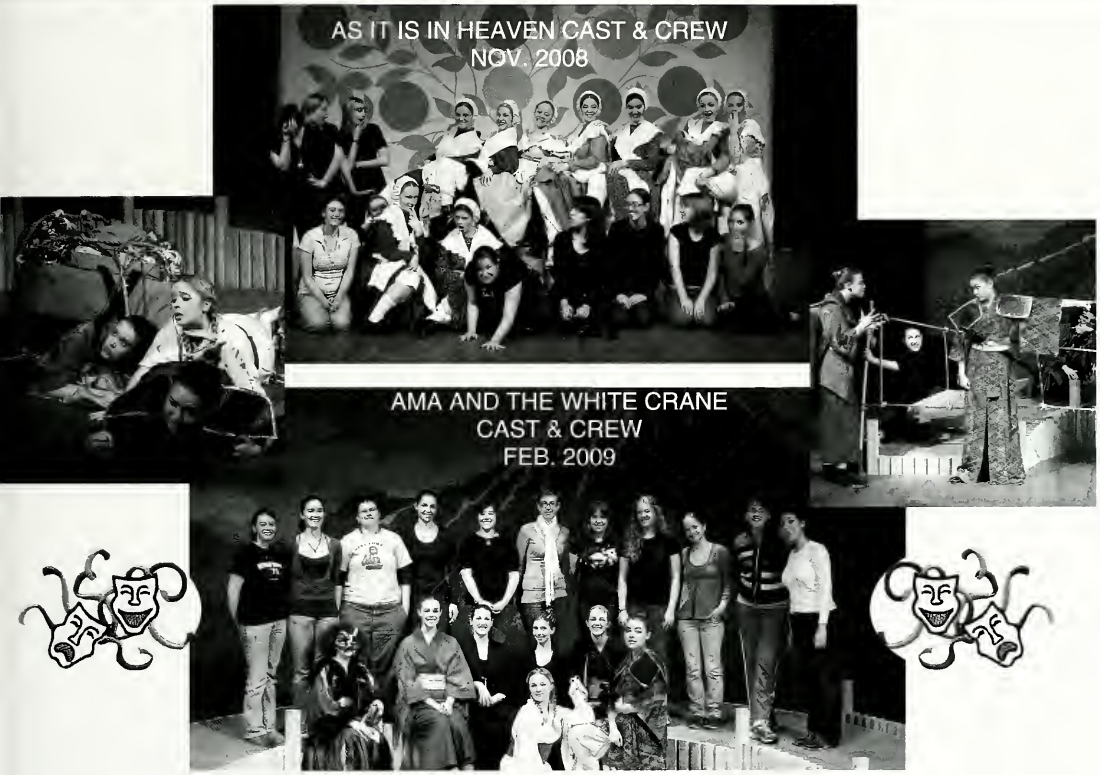
Blackfriars



Blackfriars holds the distinction of being the oldest theatre company in Atlanta. How cool is that! This school year has been both an exciting and refreshing season. Blackfriars, the student theater troupe, was founded in 1915 under the direction of Frances S. Gooch, and as before mentioned claims the distinction of being the oldest producing theater in Atlanta, as well as the oldest organization on campus. Working in close cooperation with the theater faculty of the department of theater and dance, Blackfriars offers students the opportunity to participate in all aspects of production, from performance to technical theater. Blackfriars presents a major production each semester, as well as a production for children and a collection of student-generated productions.

Dana Scholars

ne Dana Scholars are selected based on leadership roles and attainment of a GPA above a 3.0. Through participation in the Dana Scholars leadership program, these students have the opportunity to meet ccomplished alumnae who share the successes and challenges of their leadership experience while also discussing leadership lessons topics that equip them for life beyond Agnes Scott. The 2008-2009 Dana Scholars heard from women leaders of City of Decatur, learned how to network and handle sticky situations, and made a visit to the corporate offices of The Southern Company.

Emerging Leaders

Emerging Leaders is a program offered to selected students who have been identified as first-year leaders on campus.

These young leaders have the opportunity to participate in a multi-week program that exposes them to different leadership topics and situations in order to refine their leadership skills.

Held every two weeks from January through April, the Emerging Leaders program broadens the knowledge base of first-year leaders in areas such as creating leadership visions, leading a team, communicating with diverse audiences, and leading with integrity. In 2009, members read and discussed the book The Student Leadership Challenge and created and worked towards accomplishing their own visions for campus and community projects.

The 2009 Emerging Leaders are Danielle Adamson, Dagny Asase, Courtney Brown, Rebecca Deutsch, Kelly Domino, Stefanie Donham, Ashley Hunter, Lauren Kenney, Jasmine Lewis, Stacey-Ann Love, Susie Martinez, Beverly McCall, Nadrat Nuhu, Syreeta Pritchett, Kimberly Reeves, Ginia Taylor, Emily Thomas

The Emerging Leaders participated in a Low ropes course as a way to build and gain trust in each other. This is an important aspect of working on a team and was a wonderful base for the four topics the group would be discussing: How to create vision, Building relationships & respect for others, Communicating like a leader, and Leading with integrity. These topics culminated in a presentation of their leadership visions.

The 2008 Student Government Executive Board encouraged student organizations to use each other as resources. They initiated the first-ever external websites for student organizations and worked to make student organization processes and policies more relevant and understandable. Overall, the SGA Executive Board did their best to think objectively about the challenges facing the student body and made lasting decisions for the betterment of Agnes Scott students and student organizations.

Each student of Agnes Scott College is a member of the Student Government Association. The student body elects SGA officers as well as the officers and representatives of Honor Court, Student Senate, and Judicial Board.

Your student government executive board works hard to ensure that campus life at Agnes Scott is everything you want it to be! The executive board plans the fall leadership retreat, leadership transition, the leadership reception and elections, among other activities. The 2008 executive board made improvements to the budget allocations process, the student activity fee, and websites for student organizations. The 2009 board plans to launch the Student Strategic Plan.

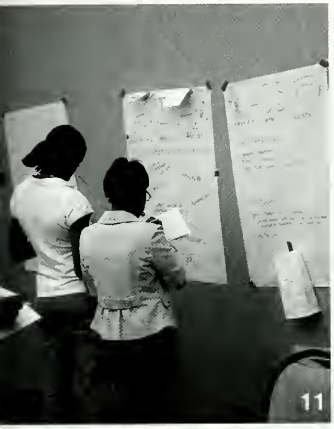
Fall Leadership Retreat

Each August, student leaders kick off the school year with an overnight retreat. They learn how to more effectively manage their organizations, reach their goals and visions, and continue developing as leaders.

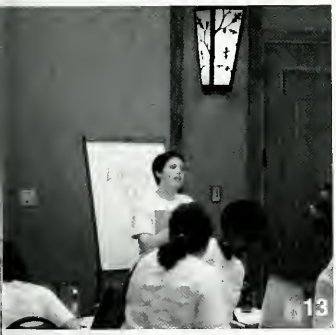
The Fall 2008 Leadership Retreat was successfully held at Callaway Gardens in Pine Mountain, GA on August 18th and 19th. Student leaders gathered to build relationships, share challenges and solutions, learn more about each other's organizations, and get motivated for the new year!

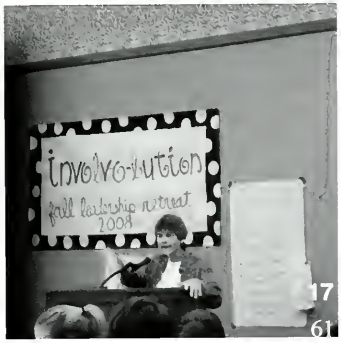
The Retreat was attended by the leaders of the 70 plus student organizations, the Orientation Council, Residence Life Staff, Class Officers, Student Senate, and the Executive Council of the Student Government Association.

1-3) It sure did seem early in the morning but we were all excited to go on the Retreat.
4) Our new dean Donna Lee introduced herself to the group and had us recognize the other leaders we admired in the group by tying a string around their wrist. This is a practice in Tibet before a person goes on a journey so that they remember all of the people who are supporting them at home.
5) Joy Griggs the new Director of Residence Life also introduced herself.
6 and 7) It was then of course time for some ice breakers to help us get to know each other better.



8) Our wonderful leaders Dean Hall, Dean Sanders-McMurtry, and Erin Howle were never far and made sure that everything went off without a hitch.
9-12) The first break-out season allowed different groups to give advice to each other and discover ways that the groups could collaborate with each other that they had never tried or seen before.
13-15) The remaining breakout sessions were for specific groups such as class officers, Residence Life, Senate, Orientation Council, and Organization Presidents.
16) On the 18th a panel of three alumnae touched on the importance of being involved in leadership roles on campus.
17) The retreat was closed by our keynote speaker Katherine Mitchell '68 who discussed the ethical aspects of leadership and the certain characteristics that make a good leader.





Sophomore Family Weekend

Sophomore Family Weekend is a time honored tradition. The high point of the weekend is when the Sophomores actually receive their rings. The rectangular, black, onyx stone inscribed with ASC has not changed since the ring was first worn in 1923. This ring ties all Agnes Scott alumnae together, and many upperclasswomen tell stories about how they were out somewhere and someone saw their ring and stopped them to say, "I went to Agnes Scott too!" It is in the spirit of sisterhood that we welcome the Sophomores to the "Black Ring Mafia" and say congratulations you are now a full member of the Agnes Scott Community for life. Wear your rings proudly.

ING Marathon Hydration Station

Agnes Scott students, staff, and community members gathered bright and early on Sunday, March 29th to cheer on and support thousands of runners during the third annual ING Georgia Marathon. The Scottie Dog and spirited students welcomed runners to the Main Loop as Johnny Scales and the 2-Timers played some lively music and volunteers passed out water and Gatorade. Favorite marathoners included Charlie a 75 year old man, a woman who ran with a steel leg, a man dressed in full Army gear including boots and backpack, and Agnes Scott's own Jaxen Solseng '09, Dr. Alan Koch and Dr. Jim Wiseman.

Coach Spotlight

Amanda Brown entered her third year with the Agnes Scott Scotties this year. She joined Agnes Scott after graduating from Maryville College with a Bachelors in Psychology and a Minor in German. While attending Maryville, she also played volleyball where she was a four year starter, she was on the All-Freshman Team, and her team received a bid to the NCAA National tournament every year.

They were also GSAC Conference Champions for three years during her tenure. She then went on to the University of Tennessee Knoxville where she received her Masters in Sport Psychology while working with the Lady Vols' volleyball team.

Coach Brown and her husband, Adam, reside in Atlanta.

Path to Semifinals

The Agnes Scott College Womens soccer team grabbed an early lead over Maryville College and actually extended it, but could not hold on, as they dropped the Great South Athletic Conference (GSAC) tournament semi-final game 7-2 on Friday. The loss ended the Scotties' season in the semi-finals of the conference tournament for the fifth consecutive year.

The Scotties got off to a dream start when senior Ashley Schmidt hit the yard 45 seconds into the game to give the Scotties their first lead against Maryville in three years. The start got even better in the 22nd minute when Kate Schuhlein (Germantown, Tenn.) split the Lady Scots defense and doubled the lead.

"I honestly could not believe the start", Head Coach Joe Bergin said. "To score one is great, but two is outstanding. And we hit the cross bar on another shot! I was hoping we could sustain that energy level for the whole game."

With several injuries later in the half, Maryville finished the half on a roll, scoring three goals in a span of 13 minutes to go into the break up 3-2. The Lady Scots finished off the Scotties in the second half with four additional goals for the final margin of 7-2.

The score does not look good, but I am so proud of our kids, said Bergin. To put this into perspective, we started seven first-years today against a team that has not lost in 88 conference games. This bodes well for us for the future. We have a bunch of off-season work ahead of us which includes strengthening our players and the squad through recruiting.

The Scotties finished the year 7-12-1 and have advanced to the GSAC tourney semi finals every year under Bergin.

Cross Country

Fourth in Conference

The Agnes Scott Cross Country team finished fourth at the Great South Athletic Conference Championship in Maryville, Tenn., as numerous members of the team received post-season honors.

The Scotties were led by senior Jaxen Solseng, who placed 9th overall, followed by teammate and junior, Michelle Bach who finished 10th.

First-year Merrill Montgomery earned a spot on the All-Freshman Team as one of the top five first-year finishers, placing 19th overall out of 45 runners. Other competitors in the GSAC Championship were sophomore, Jenna Stuckey , junior, Angele Alberti and senior, Elodie Marias.

Jaxen Solseng, Michelle Bach, Jenna Stuckey, and Angele Alberti were named to the GSAC All-Academic Team. To receive this distinction, student-athletes must be sophomore level or higher and have a 3.25 GPA.

"I am very proud of the cross country team for their hard work and dedication," Head Coach Mary Chind said. "Not everyone can balance school and athletics and these young ladies have continued to excel in both areas."

After leading by one at halftime, the Agnes Scott basketball team fell to Huntingdon College, 54-46 in the semifinals of the Great South Athletic Conference Tournament. The loss ended the Scotties' season, who finished the year with a 13-11 overall record.

"When your defense is able to hold a talented team like Huntingdon in the 40s before last-minute fouling and execute well enough to get so many open looks, you are doing a bunch of things right," Ciccone said. "We wanted the victory as much or more than Huntingdon did, but our second-half shooting hurt us."

The contest was the final game for Scottie seniors Kristen Davis, Nicole Maples and Morgan Smith. Maples and Smith scored 13 and 11 points respectively, while Davis made key plays on the defensive end.

Prior to the game, GSAC Conference Honors were awarded. Junior Am'asa Baldwin and senior Morgan Smith were each named to the All-Academic Team. Smith was also named to the All-Conference Team, while first-year Kimberly Reeves was named to the All-Freshman Team. Reeves scored 13 points in the loss.

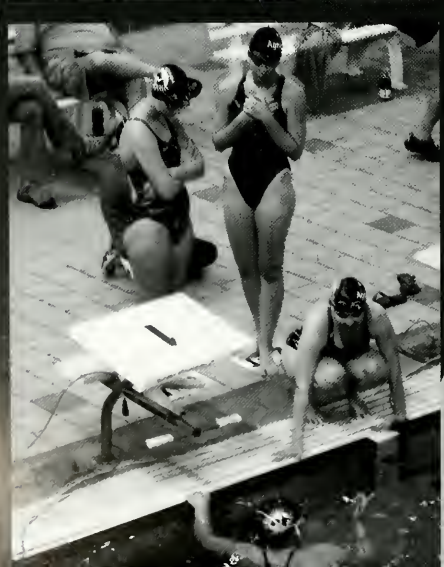
Coming in at Fourth

swimming



After three days and six sessions of competition, the Scotties shattered three school records, had one NCAA qualifying time, and splashed to fourth place overall at the 2009 Atlantic States Swim Championships. This is the second year in a row the squad finished fourth in a field of 12 teams.

Sophomore April Whitley and first-year Katherine Curtiss led the Scottie charge, each placing in the top eight for all three of their individual events. For the second straight year, Whitley earned an NCAA B qualifying time of 2:26.67 in her victory in the 200-yard breaststroke. She also finished second in the 100-yard breaststroke and 4th in the 200-yard individual medley.

Curtiss set a school record in the 400-yard individual medley (4:48.69, breaking the old mark of 4:53.71 set by Amy Zvonar in 2001), her performance earning her 3rd place overall. She also finished fifth in the 200-yard individual medley in a career-best 2:15.79, and seventh in the 200-yard backstroke in 2:16.26.

Junior Maggie Hamilton and senior Shannon Reisner each added three top-12 performances of their own. The duo placed tenth and eleventh, respectively, in the 500-yard freestyle. Hamilton also grabbed eighth in the 200 freestyle and 200 backstroke, while Reisner was fifth in the 1650 freestyle and eighth in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Whitley, Curtiss, Hamilton, and Reisner joined forces four times, earning fourth place in all four relays they swam and setting ASC records in the 400 and 800 freestyle relays (3:52.24 and 8:26.38, respectively, breaking former records of 3:53.08 and 8:29.16).

A New Era is Here

A new era of Agnes Scott Softball began this year with the 2008-09 season. The Scotties were under the leadership of new head coach Shawn Bowers. With a solid core of returning players and a number of talented First Years entering the program, Bowers attempted to repeat the success he experienced during his four years at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (RPI).

While at RPI, Bowers helped lead his team to the NCAA Tournament, as well as a conference championship. Bowers was part of a staff named Conference Coaching Staff of the Year, as he specialized in hitting and outfield play. Bowers will now attempt to bring his winning ways to the Scotties, with a conference championship as the team's goal.

Seniors

The Class of 2009 entered Agnes Scott in the fall of 2005 and soon adopted the Muses of Apollo as their mascot. By the next fall the class adopted the Gold Diggers as their offical mascot for the next three years. The costumes really reflected the double entandre inherient in the name, they wore miners hats and gold necklaces. They were victorious in their Senior Black Cat and took top honors. The class hosted several fundraiser events for Dress for Success and gave back to the community in as many ways as possible. There were lots of good times with friends, family weekends, and class events. Four years are coming to a close and as Orientation said it would be the ride of our lives. Always remember the great traditions and days. The Class of 2009 will always hold Agnes dear. We may not know all of the reasons that we love Anges but we do. Farewell, Agnes Scott. We will miss you!

Dennis the Menace

Class of 1957
English and History
(Those were the two most popular majors in the class of 1957)
Dennis first came on the scene in 1951 and since then has become one of the most recognizable cartoon characters in history. Dennis the Menace would make his first appearance as a mascot at Agnes Scott in 1957, he would appear two more times as a yellow class mascot. As the class of 1957 related its class history in the 1957 Silhouette, they participated in many of the traditions we hold dear at Agnes Scott today. They also ran a dry cleaning service, participated in the Senior Opera and May Day, and left a legacy for their yellow sisters across the years.

Eloise

Class of 1961

The most popular major in the class of 1961 was History. To quote from the 1961 Silhouette: "Parties and dances were dimmed by the more serious moments of Investiture and Graduate Records. Emotions, too, were mixed. Pride was felt for things accomplished; regret in things left undone. There was joy and anticipation of the future; sadness with the thought of leaving friends behind." It is clear that the women of the class of 1961 felt much the same way we do as we are coming to the end of our journey here at Agnes Scott.

Daisy Mae

Class of 1973

Daisy Mae was the love of Lil Abner in the now famous comic strip of the same name. Running for over 40 years the couple married in 1952 and lived a relatively quiet life. Daisy Mae became a domestic housewife and remained that way. However, it seems that the women of Agnes Scott may have picked her for other virtues. Agnes women were still majoring in English or History and not much had changed in the way of traditions.

Class of 1985

The most popular majors were English and Economics. The Sundance Kids wore cowboy hats and yellow bandanas, much like the Gold Diggers miner hats and yellow fabric. They seem to sum it up best in the 1985 Silhouette, "There is something special about life here at Agnes Scott. It isn't something you can put your finger on exactly, but it colors your whole life. Goodbye Agnes! We will miss you."

Class of 1989

The class of 1989 was full of diverse majors but the top two were Psychology and Economics. The college's centenial year was a year long celebration. The year was a celebration of one-hundred years of keeping the promise, of educating women, and a renewed fervor to be around for a hundred more. The members of the Senior class participated in many social events and protest both on campus and off campus.

Class of 2001

This class was most likely either a Business and Economics major or a Psychology major. The class was much like the Class of 2009. They were spirited and not afraid to show it. The class dominated the Black Cat festivities and the college was a hub of activity. Alston was opened and the Library renovation was completed. Agnes Scott had plans for the future lined up but they recognized the importance of traditions and the rich history of Agnes Scott.

Final Words, Thanks, and Goodbyes

I want to start by saying thank you to Agnes Scott College, the institution. It has taught me more about myself than I could have ever hoped to learn and when I look up at the bell tower of Main I think about all of the good, bad, and even ugly times I have had at Agnes Scott. But, I also remember that Agnes will always be there for me when I need it and I can always call it home. I love this place, it is in my blood, and I will never forget it. That black, onyx ring we all wear will not let me forget it. I was fortunate to be able to follow Dean Hudson's advice during Orientation and get involved like many of you in the Class of 2009. I will always treasure the time I spent as a Residence Assistant, the Secretary of our class, and as a member of the Colonnade Club but, the Silhouette holds a special place in my heart. So, now to the book and the cause of my writing. Before the fall of 2007 I had never been the Editor-in-Chief of anything, I barely edited my papers before turning them in. As I write now I am thinking about how many picas the text should be from the center of the book and re-reading every word as I type. When I became the editor my junior year, I was terrified. I was involved in so many things that it seemed most days that nothing would get done on time or turned in ever. I quickly learned that working on the yearbook was a labor of love and that I would have to do what I could to present that to the campus community. I have never felt like I succeed in my task but, I have been told time and time again that the 2008 Silhouette was a success. I owe that success to several people and to those people I am both grateful and in their debt. For both the 2008 and 2009 Silhouette I must thank eternally Whitney Brown '07. Without her guidance and care I am sure that more than once I would have thrown in the towel and said "forget it, I hate the book, I no longer care if it gets done." She was always at the other end of my telephone telling me that none of those things were true and that I just needed to take a break, "maybe you should think about some sleep." Whitney, I am forever grateful and blessed to be able to call you my friend and be able to blame my yearbook worries and problems on you, since you were the one who said that I would be a great Editor. Your friendship means the world to me and I hope that you know I never could have made these two yearbooks without you. You taught me everything I needed to know about making a yearbook. For the 2008 book I am also in debt to Shannon McKnight '08 whose constant work on the book kept me sane. Your layouts were impeccable and you always had a smile to brighten the office. I wish you the best in all you do. Pauline, I owe you a big one too. Neither book would have been completed without your hard work and willingness to listen to me complain at all hours of the night. Thank you for your friendship over our years here and I hope to stay close for many more. I want to also thank my staff from both years as they were a huge help to me and kept me going because we know that one person can not make the book by themselves. I want to thank Nicoline Strom-Jensen '06 as a past Editor and friend, you have been willing to listen to me complain about the book to no end and for that I thank you. I want to be sure and thank my parents who have always been in my corner and never let me think that I could not succeed. I have to thank Erin Howle the adviser not only to the Silhouette but to my future. The number of hours that I have spent in your office should be billed to Agnes as therapy sessions. You always had the time to stop and listen to my crazy ranting, thank you. A big thank you goes out to the Class of 2009, I love and adore too many of you to try and make a list but please know that I will not forget you any time soon. I want to also thank Kristy Smith, Dean Hall, Kirby Hager Johnson 06, Eunice Li Chay '08, Mia Jacintho '10, Annie Kim '06, President Kiss, The Office of Alumnae Relations, Betty Derrick 68, Dean Hudson 68, Dean Lee, Dr. Jackson- Minot, and Dr. Coia. The list of people to thank could go on for days but I will have to say thank you face to face. I just want everyone at Agnes Scott to know "You're the Best!" I refuse to say good bye to this place and its people so, until we meet again. I hope that my work on the 2009 Silhouette will measure up to the 104 volumes that come before it. With that I give you the 105th Volume the 2009 Silhouette.

Your Friend,
Sarah Kalaris '09

Specifications

The Agnes Scott College Silhouette Volume 105, was published by the printing division of Jostens, Clarksville, TN, 1312 Highway 48, Clarksville, TN. The books were produced using Jostens YearTech Online. There were 700 copies printed with 160 pages.

Fonts used were: Body and Captions: Function, Times, Palatino and Helvetica. Headlines: Melville, Function and Helvetica.

The cover art was conceptualized by the staff members and designed by plant artist David Shelton. The cover is a custom litho with UV coating and matte lamination. The grain is Mission and cut out around the graphics. The book has an 8.5 x 11 trim size. The endsheets are light beige.

The staff would like to give a big thank you to Sandra McCarthy and her team, without their hard work and support this years book would not be the success that it is. We would also like to thank Erin Howle, our advisor, for her tireless support. Lastly, thank you to everyone who will read and enjoy this book and those who sent in pictures.

Congratulations to the Class of 2009

Rachel Elise Wacks

Dear Rachel,

Congratulations! It seems like just yesterday we brought you home, at 3 days old. Even at that time you made all the rules. You dictated your own schedule and were not interested in what we thought. All we can say is this has worked for you. We are so very proud of all you have done and achieved. May all of your dreams come true.

We love you so much.

To simpler bygone times . . .
To times ahead . . .
To the road less traveled by, and what it holds.

Never taking the easy way . . .
Yet discerning the path that is true to you . . .
And always, always excelling.

The gleam and sparkle in your parents' eye . . .
The pure joy in your grandmother's heart . . .
A treasured beloved sister on whom your sibs rely . . .
Your son's rising and setting sun, his entire miraculous universe.

To our darling precious daughter . . .
You rock our world. Is the rest of the world ready to get rocked?

Meagan Patricia Whitney

When my legs weaken, and no longer support
my weight,
Or my eyes fail me and I cannot see what's in front of me,
And these hands tremble and my feet become incapable of motion-
There will be you.

You give yourself so willingly to me.
My limitations are easily overcome
Because two are better than one.

Oh sister, You found me in the grass
And took my hand to lead me around another world, the child's imaginings.
You were my co-conspirator
In campaigns to take down the other kingdoms
From our thrones in a sun-speckled forest.

Now you are my alibi, my partner.
And where you go I shall always follow.
And when you need my legs, eyes, arms, ears,
or heart.
They will be yours.

Because you were my first star to wish upon.
The first person worth sharing a day with.
The dearest of my friends.

- Kate

Lauren Potter

Hi Sport!
Enough from me; here are what a few others have said:

Albert Schweitzer: There are two means of refuge from the miseries of life: music and cats.
Cicero (106 BC - 43 BC): History is the witness that testifies to the passing of time; it illuminates reality, vitalizes memory, provides guidance in daily life and brings us tidings of antiquity.
Edward Steichen: Photography is a major force in explaining man to man.

Love, Dad

Molly Kempson

Molly, your hard work, courage, strength, and determination has taken you this far and you've done it EXCEPTIONALLY well!
We have no doubt that your dreams will come true for you if you continue to stay true to yourself.

We will always love and support you Boo.
